mob attacked the Japanese house of parliament today. It was driven back by the police only after the entrance gates had been broken down and scores of people injured.

The ricting followed a big mass meeting at which resolutions were passed to impeach the cabinet for its attitude in connection with the graft charges against Japanese naval officiers.

Numerous arrests were made and frequent clashes between the police and the mob followed in various parts of the dity. There was also a free light on the floor of the diet.

Fifteen persons were pushed into the canal during a fight near the office of a government newspaper, but all of them were rescued.

The diet rejected by a vote of 205 to 164, a resolution of want of confidence in the government.

Colorado coal fields was introduced today before the subcommittee of the house committee which is investigating the coal miners' strike.

James Adams, the young Missourian who last night testified that he was held prisoner in the Delagua mine, was recalled to testify to the contract under which he said he was brought to Colorado. He was unable to identify positively his own signature. The alleged contract produced by counsel for the mine operators, bound the signer to work in the mines as a strike breaker.

er to work in the mines as a strike breaker.

Salvatori Valentin, a Sicilian, was called as the next witness for the strikers. He said he came to Colorado from Pitsburg at the solicitation of a man who was seeking 2000 men to work in the mines in the Trinidad district. He signed a contract on December 13, he declared, in which he was told, according to his statement, that there was no strike in Colorado. When the train reached Trinidad, he said, all the curtains in the coach were closed and the laborers aboard were taken to the Delagua mine.

Expert Does Not Believe Remains of Victims of Cumbre Disaster Will Be Taken Out; Thinks Tremendous Heat Burned All Bodies Completely-Castillo Band Located Without Any Prisoners in Their Charge; Third Body Is Found in Wreckage.

HAT the terrific heat in Cumbre tunnel destroyed all the bodies of the passengers upon the North Western train wrecked and burned in the tunnel last Wednesday evening, is the theory of W. S. McLaughlin, one of the rescuers. Mr. McLaughlin went down with the rescue party Sunday and returned Monday. He does not believe that any more bodies will be recovered, but if all were not completely burned, he says it will be days before the debris can be dug away and the remains taken out. He believes the passengers were all asphyxiated by the gases in the tunnel and that the tremendous heat, fanned by the draft through the tunnel, completely consumed every body on the train. The burned remains of a third body was found in the express car Tuesday by the rescuers.
"I do not favor the mine explosion theory of the acci dent," Mr. McLaughlin said Tuesday. "I studied the tunnel entrances carefully and, from my experience in this kind of work, I believed that the passengers were suffocated in a zone of vacuum, which was created by the action of the su perheated air from the south end of the tunnel and the cold air from the north end of the tunnel. Cumbre tunnel is built on a gentle curve or bent, the two ends being lower than the middle. When the cars were set on fire at the south end, the heated air naturally went to the highest point. At the same time there was a draft of cold air from the north entrance and these two volumes of air met near the middle of the tunnel and created a zone of monoxide gas, which is deadly. It was this monoxide gas that I believed killed the passengers before the heat consumed them.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—
Denouncing the administration corporation commission bill as opening the "loveliest graft of a century" and as surpassing Russia in inquisition. James E. Bennett today told the house commission that such a law would drive small corporations out of business. Representing a number of corporations, he questioned its constitutionality.

This hill as at present drawn," he said, "would give the vital secrets of the small corporations to its big competitor. It would show up the weak points of the small concern and open it up to the attacks of its rival. This thing would open the loveliest graft that you gentlemen ever saw, with thousands of special gents roaming around the country prying into the hundreds or thousands of corporations, graft would be wicespread.

"These ascents would have no qualification but political pull. Bring Hody of Tunnel Victim.

Rescue train No I which went to the tunnel Saturday, returned to Juarez Tresday with the body of brakeman Juan Fernandes on board. The rescuers who went down brought back no encouragement for the relatives of the passengers, and they say that it is clubtful if the bodies will ever be found, as the extreme heat had probably consumed them.

Americans who returned with the train Monday night say that if the tunnel watchman had been en duty at the tunnel entrance the fatal accident would never have occurred. Instead, it is said, he rode from Pearson to Cumbre on the passenger train, got off at Cumbre station and went into the tunnel after the passenger train, do off at Cumbre station and went into the tunnel after the passenger train had gone to its fate in the depths of the tunnel. The returning rescuers also blame the Mexican root doing his duty instead of going down the track to watch Castillo ditch the engines. They say that the freight brakeman had plenty of time to go over the mountain and flag the oncoming passenger train, as he was required to do by the comcompetitive bidding under conditions which would assure the government a cyalty of two cents a ton of all coal plants. During the time the mining perations were being projected it would enforce the payment of rent at he rate o 25 cents per acre for the first car, 50 cents per acre for the second, hird, fourth and fifth, and $1 per year hereafter. Royalties paid on coal mined, however, would be credited to his rental account.

Bestroys Last Hope.

The discovery of Castillo and his band dispelled the last hope the Pearson officials had that the passengers and crew of the burned train might be held as prisoners in some mountain camp of the bandit leader. It is now believed to be certain that all of the passengers perished in the tunnel. Small bones were found by the rescuing parties late Monday afternoon near the ruins of the express car. The bones were found near the car and not far from where the body was found, at noon Monday. There is nothing to prove that this body found near the express car was that of express messenger Blanco, except that he should have been in the express car when the train entered the tunnel and that he (Continued on Page 3, Column One.)

He was not permitted to go outside the camp to buy beer and tobacco, and was guarded by soldiers on the way to and from his boarding house. One of his companions, he testified was shot and killed in the mine. He did not know who did the shooting, but saw the body carried out of the mine by the militamen, he said.

Valentin said that after the shooting he tried to leave the mine, but was told that he was indebted to the company, $136 for tools and transportation. On the morning of January 28, he again demanded his release, and was given a military escort from the mine to a boarding house. Reaching there he was told that he must pay the company $138 before he would be permitted to leave the camp. He tried, with several companions, to go out one of the gates, but was stopped by soldiers. That night, however, he and 47 Italians succeeded in passing the guards. He went to the strikers' camp at Luddow.
